GENERAL NEWS.

General Flood in the Mississippi and its Tributaries.

HUNDREDS OF FARMS INUNDATED AND GREAT LOSS OF STOCK.

Beautiful Tribute to Mrs. Garfield from ex-Confederates—A Touching Interview—Letter from Danenhower, etc., etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

MEMPHIS, Feb. 21.—The river is now on a standstill, but probably will soon begin to rise again. It is now eleven inches above the danger line at several points between here and Vicksburg. It is even higher than ever before known, and every plantation between Memphis and Fear's point, Miss., is submerged. The water extends back from either shore fifteen miles. Planters are enduring great hardships from loss of mules, cattle, hogs and sheep by drowning, and in nearly all overflowed sections stock, or what was saved, are kept huddled together on hastily built platforms. What with floods pouring over the Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland, prospects are indeed gloomy to inhabitants of the valley.

A Deluged Country.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 22.—Officers of the City of Greenville confirm the report published of the sad condition of affairs existing throughout the Mississippi valley. Thousands of men are on constant guard along the levees between here and Vicksburg, using every possible means to strengthen their power of resisting and elevate their crests to prevent water from inundating the whole country. The Greenville brought up several thousand empty sacks to be used by filling them with earth to aid in strengthening the embankment. The whole shore line between Memphis and Vicksburg on the Mississippi side and the whole eastern shore of Arkansas, are either under water or threatened with inundation. The inhabitants of a vast area of country are in great distress. Many have been forced from their houses and are subsisting as best they may on rafts, and some on knolls and parts of old levees. The destruction of live stock is beyond calculation, and waste of property by great submersion is outside the limits of present computation. Navigation of the river itself is regarded by steamboat men as dangerous at its present stage on account of the great expanse of water in many localities, and billowy character of the waves when surface swept by heavy gusts of wind, and also because of the great difficulty of getting to safe ports. Government lights along the river are maintained with admirable regularity. These lights prove of incalculable benefit to steamboat men now, since all bank land marks have disappeared. Arkansas City is completely submerged and not a single house in the city is free from the presence of muddy floors. The water there is represented as being eight inches higher than the floods of 1876. Houses were built so as to be above high flood level that year, but in all of them there is from seven to eight inches of water. Between Cairo and Memphis the following points of land only are visible above the surging flood; the bluffs at Columbus, hills back of Hickman, land on the Tennessee side opposite New Madrid, Point Pleasant, Tiptonville, Fulton Bluffs, Randolph, Richardson, Islands 35 and 36 and Dean's Island, and about the heads of Centennial Cutoff, 40 miles above Memphis.

Floods Increasing.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Reports received to a late hour to-night from points on the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri show that floods in most cases are on the increase. Serious losses are reported everywhere. At Helena, six children were drowned on Col. Ellis' plantation to-day, while being conveyed to a place of safety.

A Sad Accident.

PADUCAH, Ky., Feb. 22.—Yesterday morning during a storm a flat boat containing three women and two men, the latter colored, was blown from its moorings and swept into the middle of the river and all were drowned. A young man went out to the boat, but his skiff was swamped and he too was drowned.

The Ohio Falling.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22.—The river has fallen nearly two feet from the highest mark and is falling rapidly. Weather is clear and cold. Advices from up river show it is still rising, and it may rise again here, but cold weather gives promise that the worst is over. No change in general situation.

The Flood Subsiding at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22.—The effects of the storm are disappearing and railroad traffic recovering; river falling slowly.

An Interesting Letter.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—A curiosity in the shape of a letter from Lieut. Danenhower, was received last Tuesday by his brother, Mr. Wash. Danenhower. It is probably the first letter ever received from the mouth of the Lena, and was on the road just four months to a day. The envelope is covered with various Russian postmarks, and on the back is a huge seal, evidently of some Siberian officer. The letter is as follows:

HOUSE OF RUSSIAN COOSMA,
Lena River, Siberia, Oct. 14, 1881.

MY DEAR WASH: Am well, safe and in good health. Love to all; dear mother especially. Will be home by spring, I hope. Send letters to B. F. Stevens, of London, for me. Find out at navy department if Stevens is still dispatch agent at London, and write him to keep my mail subject to my order. Hope this may reach you all right.

JOHN DANENHOWER.

A Handsome Memorial.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—A committee representing ex-Confederate soldiers of Cincinnati visited Mrs. Garfield at Mentor to-day and presented her with a beautiful memorial tribute to the memory of James A. Garfield in the shape of sympathetic and eulogistic resolutions. Mrs. Garfield, with great effort, repressed her emotion, while the old mother of the late president wept violently. Both were clad in the deepest mourning. The late president's widow, her voice trembling with emotion, replied to the address of General Withers as follows: "Gentlemen, I am very grateful to you and to those from whom this beautiful gift comes, both for its sake and the sentiment you express." The two mesdames Garfield then examined the memorial gift and expressed their admiration of the frame to Mr. Knire, its maker, who said: "My heart went out in sympathy for the president. I volunteered to make that frame, and I made it so that it may remain a standing testimony of southern sentiment." Gen. Withers added: "And moreover, we want to show these northern politicians that we ex-confederates are not as black as they try to make us out to be." The younger Mrs. Garfield responded, "It had always been the general's greatest wish that there be no north or south. His earnest desire was to see a united country, and had he lived—" here her grief overcame her and the sentence was unfinished. After brief silence, courtesies were exchanged and the visitors withdrew.

The Hawaiian Treaty Agitation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The petition in circulation for signatures to-day asking the abrogation of the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian islands as soon as it can be done in honorable accordance with the terms of the treaty. F. B. Thurber, who is active in opposition to the treaty to-day said he anticipated very strong opposition at Washington. Boutwell had been retained as counsel to oppose the repeal, and Claus Spreckels had a powerful lobby. He ridiculed the idea that Spreckels was not opposed to the abrogation of the treaty on the ground that he was a refiner as well as a planter, and if one branch of the trade failed him he could fall back on the other. Agitation of the subject has already compelled the railroads to stop making discriminating rates in favor of sugar shipped east from the Pacific.

Outrages by Blackfeet Indians.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 22.—A special from Battleford in the northwestern territory says that the Blackfeet Indians in the vicinity of Ford creek, Deer creek and South branch are committing numerous depredations and driving off and killing cattle. In the Bow river country some American whisky traders were killed by them, and several other Americans have been found dead in the neighborhood and are supposed to have been killed by the same savages.

The Sprague Divorce Case.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 21.—In the superior court at Kingston this afternoon formal hearing of Kate Chase Sprague's suit for divorce was had. By agreement of counsel, Sprague's petition was withdrawn and all charges of adultery were eliminated from Mrs. Sprague's petition. Hearing was had mainly on the question of non-support. Mrs. Sprague's petition was practically granted, but a decree of divorce is not yet entered. The mother retains the custody of the three girls, and the boy remains with the father.

Stormy Weather.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A brief thunder storm occurred to-night, with vivid lightning and high wind. Reports from various sections of the middle states say remarkably stormy weather has prevailed the last 24 hours.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—Reports from all over Canada report the most severe storm of the season occurred last night and to-day. Snow fell from six inches to two feet.

Mining Stocks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Mining stocks dull and weak. Transactions in state line No. 2 and 3 were large, the stock starting at 73, declining to 68 and closing at 72. Robinson very dull at $2 55@2 65. South Pacific declined from $3 15 to $2 65. One lot of 100,000 shares of Southern Pacific was sold under rule at $2 60. Little business was done in other stocks. The sale at both exchanges was 214,250 shares.

John E. Owens' Wealth.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—John E. Owens has signed a contract for three years as stock actor of the Madison Square theatre. His friends say that while he lost $45,000 in a mine in California, he is still wealthy.

A Mild Accident.

It was reported to-night another terrible accident had occurred in the Hudson river tunnel. It proved, however, to be only a slight explosion, five persons being somewhat injured.

The Scarlet Fever Scourge.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—Ravages of the scarlet fever are becoming alarming. Deaths for seven weeks this year, 870.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Fitz John Porter to be Restored to the Army.

THE GRANT RETIREMENT BILL TO BE CONSIDERED TO-DAY.

John C. New Confirmed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury—News Editor Barton Again on Duty, Etc., Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The Graphic's Washington special says: Gen. Fitzjohn Porter's friends claim new developments that will help his case. They will produce a telegraph operator from Pope's headquarters during the Rapidan campaign and they claim to show that it was impossible for Porter to have obeyed orders sent him even if delivered. In fact they could not have been delivered at the time it was testified, but instead of half-past five o'clock it must have been after dark. They profess to be able to show by his knowledge that operators had been communicating with one another over the wires, and that for two days while Pope thought he had the enemy on his front they were massing on his rear, and that he was outgeneraled and a scapegoat had to be found. This was Porter's ill fortune. It is reported also that Gen. Ruggles, now on Sherman's staff, will tell what he knows, and that he will say that Pope was in the wrong in the matter, and that Porter was given orders impossible of execution. It is said that Grant's last expression of opinion had the effect of opening the mouths of general officers who before regarded it discreet to preserve silence. The president will be urged to take action on the verdict of the board of review which set aside the finding of the first courtmartial. Schofield was president of the advisory board. The question now is when his back pay as a major general of volunteers shall cease. There is no such force under government employ as a volunteer force. The question is whether he can claim it to the date of the proposed reinstatement. He can only be reinstated by nomination to the senate and confirmation. He will be nominated as a colonel of infantry to fill a vacancy. The question of date of his being mustered out as a major general of volunteers will be decided by the attorney general. It is estimated that when confirmed by the senate, as a colonel of the regular army Porter will be entitled to about $115,000 back pay. When Porter was cashiered he was forever disqualified from holding any office of public trust or merit. The nomination to be a colonel of infantry, which will be made without doubt, will carry with it pardon from all disabilities imposed by the verdict of the original court.

Porter to be Reinstated.

The Star says: The case of Gen. Fitz John Porter has been several times before the cabinet and favorably considered. It is said to be the opinion of the administration and its determination that Porter be given justice to which he is entitled. The decision of the advisory board that Porter was not only unjustly dealt with, but that if it had not been for him there would have been great disaster to the union army, has had great weight with the president and cabinet.

An Important Mining Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The important mining decision rendered by Justice Miller in the circuit court for Colorado, which was recently referred to in these dispatches as having nearly reached the point of final review by the U. S. supreme court, is to the effect that no mineral land patent can legally issue for more than one hundred and sixty acres, and that if a number of original locations have been consolidated into one claim, each of the locations must be treated as a distinct claim and advertised and proved up with proof of separate work upon it. This decision, if sustained by the supreme court, would, it is said, destroy two-thirds of the patents heretofore issued for mining claims and make the procuring of patents for most old claims impossible because of the impractibility of making proof of all locations, and because in most instances separate work has not been done on the old locations which have been consolidated into large claims. Thus, a shaft sunk on a consolidated claim to be held, must have work done on every part of it, but the circuit court judgment overthrows that principle. The appealed case has been twice argued in the supreme court and its forthcoming decision is awaited with great interest.

Matters in Committee.

The joint committee on library held a meeting to-day to consider the advisability of recommending the purchase of the Stevens collection of manuscripts and rare printed books, written by or relating to Benjamin Franklin, which are offered to the government for 1000 pounds by their London possessor.

The entire house elections committee will to-morrow act on the Utah contest. Arguments have been concluded, and it is generally believed that they will decide alike against Cannon's eligibility and the claim of Campbell to the seat, and will refer the matter to the people for a new election.

Star Route Indictments.

The following indictments were presented yesterday afternoon: J. R. Miner, for perjury in connection with the route from Bismarck to Fort Keogh and the route from St. Charles to Kreehorn; J. L. Sanderson, for perjury in connection with the route from Saugtch to Lake City; John W. Dorsey, for perjury in connection with the route from Pueblo to Rosita and the route from Trinidad to Madison City; M. C. Reertell for subornation of perjury in connection with the route from Rawlins to White river; John W. Peck, for perjury in connection with the route from Kearney, Nebraska, to Kent, and the route from Eugene City to Bridge creek, California.

The Grant Retirement Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Grant retirement bill which came over as unfinished business from yesterday, had the right of way in the senate after the pension arrears resolution was disposed of this afternoon, and it will come up as regular order at the morning hour Thursday. It is not, however, to give rise to much additional discussion, and Pacific coast senators are hopeful that debate on it will terminate at an early hour Thursday P. M., and that despite all other possible obstructions the Chinese bill will then be brought before the senate.

Pacific Coast Postal Changes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Offices established: Cramer, Tulare county, California, Elanor Cramer, postmaster. Discontinued: Fort Churchill, Lyon county, Nevada. Postmasters appointed: Wm. Reed, Gorman's station, Los Angeles county, California; Mrs. Rachael A. Tiller, Elk Creek, Douglas county, Oregon; Wm. E. Goodall, Rickreall, Polk county, Oregon; James P. Austin, Seaside, Clatsop county, Oregon; Mrs. Alithe Shannon, Springwater, Clackamas county, Oregon; John H. Nichols, Cottonwood, Spokane county, W. T.; Lorenzo M. Nettler, Morgan, Morgan county, Utah.

Kirkwood Liable to Stay.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The feeling is prevalent among senators that the president will not now make a change in the secretaryship of the interior. It is believed that at one time he had decided to put Sargent in the place, but he could not, owing to the fact that a heavy case in which he was interested was pending. This caused so much procrastination that it is thought he will probably keep Kirkwood. The people of Iowa very much desire he should remain.

Disposing of Indian Lands.

The house committee on public lands to-day ordered favorable report upon Belford's bill for the sale of that portion of the Ute reservation in Colorado lately occupied by the Uncompahgre and White river bands, in the same manner as public lands of the United States.

Additional Indictments.

The Post states the grand jury concluded its session last night and brought in additional star route indictments against M. C. Iredell, private secretary to ex-Senator Dorsey, for subornation of perjury, John W. Dorsey, brother to the ex senator, for perjury in connection with the route in Colorado, J. A. Speck, J. R. Minor and J. C. Singleton, for perjury in connection with routes in territories. It also indicted A. C. Soteldo for assault with intent to kill Clarence S. Barton, and manslaughter in killing A. M. Soteldo, Jr.

The Utah Case Committee.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The Herald's Washington special says: The committee on the Utah contested election is unanimous in favor of ousting Cannon, the polygamist. The further proposition to declare Campbell legally elected delegate brought out a division of opinion, but it is probable that a majority of the committee will be in favor of declaring a vacancy and allowing the matter to be settled by a new election.

Undecided Springer.

Congressman Springer is considering the advisability of offering a resolution calling for investigation in the Chili-Peru matter, but has not yet decided whether to do so or not.

Returned to his Place.

Clarence Barton, of the National Republican, resumed his chair in the office to-day. His neck is still somewhat stiff and he has plasters over the spot where young Soteldo's bullet entered, but otherwise he feels as well as though nothing had happened.

Point in the Criticism.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Sergeant Mason complains that he has been confined in a dark and rat infested cell ever since September, and is indignant at discriminations in favor of the assassin.

Destitution in the South.

There seems to be more truth than supposed in regard to destitution in the south. Congressman Dunn, in accordance with numerous petitions, has introduced a bill asking that the aid bill be referred.

Schurz at Washington.

Ex-Secretary Schurz arrived to-day. It is understood he is here to assist the Northern Pacific lobby in their efforts to quash measures pending in congress for the forfeiture of the lapsed grants.

The Mardi Gras Carnival.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—The weather was favorable for the Mardi Gras festival to-day and an immense crowd of people were on the streets, among them many maskers. During the afternoon the pageants of the carnival—"Phunny Phorty Phellows" and "Independent Order of the Moon"—appeared and paraded the streets. There were in all fifty-five cars, making a procession with cavalcades and bands of music over two miles in length. All subjects illustrated were of comic character.

A FALSE STATEMENT CORRECTED.

The Associated Press Acknowledges an Error.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

GENERAL OFFICE WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS, CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—To the Public: One week ago there came in the report of the Western Associated Press from Washington what purported to be a circumstantial account of the testimony of Mr. Pitney on re-examination before a senate committee making inquiry into the disbursement of the treasury contingent fund, which reflected on ex-Secretary and Mrs. Sherman. While this report seemed to have been made by some person present at the session of the committee it was yet of such extraordinary character as to suggest a doubt as to its genuineness. This doubt disappeared on the following day when the Washington correspondent informed me that certain parties desired to send in the same way a sensational report of the testimony of Emerson. This was declined and inquiry made of the correspondent for the authority on which his report as to Pitney's examination was made. Before reply could be received by mail, Senators Sherman and Hale and also Pitney pronounced the report false in every particular. The investigation which was instituted by the officers of the associated press confirms the statements made by Senators Sherman and Hale. It seems that our correspondent was misled by a reporter of the Washington Star and by statements coming from prominent characters at the capital, whose names are withheld, as no good could result to any one from their publication. The zeal which certain persons at Washington have shown to injure the ex-secretary of the treasury through the associated press is worthy a better cause, but they need not fear publicity through the same instrumentality. It is, however, due to the correspondent that this much should be stated, although he deserves censure for being misled and committing a great wrong, not only against Mr. Sherman and the senate committee, but against the association, which had given him its confidence and relied on his prudence, truthfulness and impartiality. This fault he acknowledged and we have assurances of greater carefulness in future.

This unusual method of addressing the public is felt to be warranted by the gravity of the wrong done and the importance of placing the vindication of a distinguished public officer and citizen beyond all question. In making this statement it is also proper to add that this is the first instance since the organization of the associated press when designing persons have succeeded in using its facilities for an improper and malicious purpose. It has been tried often, but was never before successful. It is believed that this mishap is due to inexperience of the correspondent.

SOME MORE OF THE SAME SORT FROM RAMBLER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your correspondent "H." saw what was not to be seen when he discovered unfriendly criticism of Dr. Hawthorne's management of the insane asylum in my letter from Salem. No reflection upon the conduct of the institution was made by me. On the contrary, I said he managed it well, but was not its physician, and would have managed it quite as well if he had not been a doctor. All of which is true. There was a physician other than the Dr. in the asylum who was mainly the doctor for the institution. That Dr. Hawthorne visited it frequently, proves that he was the vigilant contractor and manager I said he was. That he "visited it daily," as "H." asserts, is not true. There were not a few periods of forty days when the Dr. spent his time at Salem looking after the legislature. I do not know that every insane asylum in the United States has a doctor for superintendent, nor do I think "H." does. But that here is where the trouble lies, is manifest from the tenor of "H's" communication and his certificates. It would seem that the tender interest in the unassailed memory of Dr. Hawthorne arises wholly from an anxious desire to be Dr. Hawthorne's successor as manager when the state assumes charge of its insane.

I distinctly said a doctor was not necessarily objectionable for the post of superintendent, and not absolutely necessary. But in choosing that officer other and more important requisites should be considered. He should have humanity, sound practical sense, good business habits and freedom from self-seeking and jobbery. More than most public places it should be left to seek the man, instead of being "worked for" with the customary appliances of office-seeking.

RAMBLER.

Mortgaged Stock.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal, Feb. 8.

A decision of great importance to business men and of interest to the general public was rendered by Chancellor Edwards on Friday, who wrote a long and careful opinion sustaining his view. The suit was brought by Samuel Spalding against E. H. Payne and E. P. Fontaine. Fontaine owned a large majority of the stock of the Louisville Transfer Co., and executed a mortgage to Spalding, his father-in-law, on 180 shares, to secure a debt of $4200. The mortgage was recorded, but no transfer of the stock was made on the books of the corporation to Spalding, and Fontaine retained the certificates in his possession. Afterwards Fontaine sold the stock to Payne, who had no knowledge of the mortgage. Payne took the certificates and had the stock transferred to him on the company's books. When Spalding discovered this transaction he brought his suit to have the sale of the stock set aside and his lien on the 180 shares enforced. A demurrer was filed to the petition, and the judge sustained it, holding that Payne, who was an innocent purchaser, was not affected by the previous mortgage. The chancellor alluded to the fact that a vast deal of the business now transacted with banks is done by the depositing of stocks and bonds as collateral, and if every time a man went to a bank with securities of this kind the bank officers had to stop until they made an examination of his title such transactions would be retarded and business stopped.

A Radical Land League View.

The Irish World's London cable says: Michael Davitt's election is a vindication of his principles, and the answer of the Irish people to the coercion policy of the Gladstone government. Patrick Egan, treasurer of the land league, was run as a "dummy" candidate to make it impossible for the will of the people to be annulled by any legal technicality raised by the government. The result is specially significant as ratification of the "no rent" manifesto by the people of Meath, including Bishop McNulty and his Catholic clergy, who strongly supported the candidacy of Davitt and Eagan. The intention of the government to withdraw police protection from emergency men who occupy farms from which people have been evicted fills laborers with consternation and alarm. They declare it impossible to hold on to the farms if this is done. Forster explained to the house of commons that it was necessary to withdraw the police from this protection duty in order to patrol the country.

Saved from Cannibalism.

TUCSON, Feb. 21.—A special to the Star from Guaymas says that Captain Stonington of the steamer Newbern has picked up part of the crew of a wrecked British bark off the coast of Lower California. They were famishing and about to resort to cannibalism. The party consisted of the captain, wife and two children, and two seamen. A child and seaman died immediately. The mother gave birth to a healthy infant in two days.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Bradlaugh Occupies the Attention of the House of Commons.

A VIGOROUS DISCUSSION RESULTS OVER HIS POSITION.

Skobeloff's Recent Speech in Paris Said to be the Wild Utterance of an Enthusiastic Youngster.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

LONDON, Feb. 21.—In the house of commons this afternoon Stafford Northcote announced he would oppose the [illegible] of the Gladstone resolution that inquiry into the workings of the land act would be injurious to the interests of good government in Ireland.

Labouchere, liberal member from Northampton, moved that a new writ be issued for an election in Bradlaugh's constituency, as the latter was disqualified by resolution of the house. This motion is supposed to be a trap to draw a declaration from the government in favor of Bradlaugh.

Lord Randolph Churchill, conservative, moved an amendment that Bradlaugh was legally disqualified.

The attorney general advised the house to vote neither for the motion nor amendment, but permit Bradlaugh to swear subject to subsequent legal liabilities. Both motion and amendment were rejected, the former by a vote of 307 to 108. Bradlaugh then walked up to the table, took the oath and signed without waiting for the clerk, and declared, now having taken oath he would take his seat.

The speaker told him to withdraw below the bar.

Mr. Bradlaugh said he would obey, but would claim his seat.

Lord Randolph Churchill moved that a writ for a new election be issued, Bradlaugh having by his action vacated his seat.

Gladstone moved adjournment of debate till to-morrow, to enable the question to be discussed calmly. Members of the opposition agreed, but expressed the hope that the government would be prepared to propose something to vindicate the outraged dignity of the house.

When Bradlaugh reached the table to take the oath he produced a testament and obeying the speaker's injunction withdrew below the bar and then readvanced and took a seat. The speaker again ordered him to withdraw, and he took a seat under the gallery.

The house receiving this unfavorably Bradlaugh passed the bar and took his seat. In consequence of this rash act of disobeyance, and of Gladstone refusing to act, Northcote withdrew his first motion and moved that Bradlaugh, having disobeyed the chair and being in contempt of the house, be expelled.

Gladstone supported the motion, which was passed by a vote of 297 to 83. Bradlaugh voted with the minority. Gladstone abstained from voting. Bradlaugh then quietly left.

Upon motion of Northcote a new writ for Northampton was ordered, Labouchre stating that Bradlaugh would be a candidate. The Marquis of Hartington, Right Honorable Geo. Goschen and Sir Henry James, attorney general, all liberals, voted for expulsion. Sir Charles Dilke (radical), Right Honorable J. A. Mundell (liberal), Right Honorable Jas. Chamberlain (radical), Mr. Leonard Courtney (liberal), Mr. George Trevelyn (liberal), and Right Honorable Geo. Lefevre (liberal), voted against.

Lord Randolph Churchill's motion that a new writ be issued for Northampton, was rejected without division. A motion of Mr. Lyons, liberal, member from Dublin, that Bradlaugh was guilty of opposition, and is therefore incapable of sitting in the house of commons was withdrawn because of legal objections. During discussion of the point Labouchere demanded that Bradlaugh be heard at the bar of the house.

Texture of the Land Commission.

It is stated several liberal peers will serve on the select land committee, thus preventing the commission having a partisan character.

The Lost Steamer.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Wreckage from the steamer City of London, which left London for New York on Nov. 13th and never reached her destination, is continually washing upon the Irish coast. A signal locker had been found bearing the name of the vessel. She carried no passengers but her officers and crew numbered 40. Her chief business was in the cattle carrying trade.

Government Action Taken.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—News' St. Petersburg: General Ignatieff states that the government has taken measures to prevent anti-Jewish movements and the disorders will not be repeated.

A Gentle Request.

A Berlin dispatch to the St. James Gazette, says it is understood that the czar will be unmistakably requested either to retire or disgrace Gen. Skobeloff.

At the banquet 150 persons were present, including Prof. Gneist, Herr Bunsen, member of the chamber of deputies, Court Chaplains Koegel and Maier. Mr. Brewer, U. S. consul general, delivered an oration on Washington. Herr Bunsen toasted Emperor William and Knessman, ex-U. S. consul general, toasted President Arthur.

Attack on Mostar.

VIENNA, Feb. 21.—A band of insurgents or robbers attacked Mostar on Friday and Saturday and burned a number of houses. During the fighting ten women and six children were killed, but ultimately the aggressors were defeated.

Celebrating Washington's Birthday.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Herald's Cairo: Consul General Wolff and Americans here gave a grand banquet in honor of Washington's birthday to the Egyptian ministry and twenty members of the Egyptian parliament to-day. Prime minister Araby Bey, speaker of parliament, pronounced an eloquent eulogium of Washington, saying his work begun in America had taken root in Egypt. There were 200 guests, including Phelps, minister at Vienna, Senator Emory and officers of the Lancaster and Quinnebaug, now at Alexandria. The French and English consuls general, and also the comptroller, expressed the warmest sympathy with America, but declined the invitations.

Skobeloff's Speeches Harmless.

The Herald's St. Petersburg special says: In noticing the disavowal of Gen. Skobeloff which appears in the official messages I should observe that Russian statesmen and the emperor himself have been less astonished than annoyed by his sensational speeches at St. Petersburg and Paris. Gen. Skobeloff is only thirty-eight and is athirst for notoriety. No one has ever attached the slightest particle of weight to him. When he has imbibed a little more champagne than is good for him he is apt to make foolish speeches. He forgets that commanders of armies have greater responsibility than a mere sub-lieutenant, and in his anxiety to get himself talked about he cares little whom he compromises. He would have been disavowed before but for the fact that his being honored by so much notice might give him fictitious importance. I have reason to believe that but small importance is attached to the incident by the ambassadors of Germany and Austria at St. Petersburg. Last year Gen. Skobeloff expressed sentiments in direct contradiction with those contained in his recent speech. This fact should not be forgotten.

Handsomely Received.

Herald's St. Petersburg: Lieut. Harber and Master Schultze were introduced to General Ignatieff, General Aboutchine and the minister of marine to-day by Hoffman. They had a most hearty reception everywhere, and orders have been issued to give them all assistance they may require. Thanks to this they will be able to leave for Moscow and Orenburg Thursday.

Aid for Jewish Refugees.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—A London cable special says Cardinal Manning presided at an influential meeting of the executive committee of the Mansion House fund for the relief of Russo-Jewish refugees, and a sub-committee was appointed to select places for the formation of agricultural settlements, and £10,000 was placed at the disposal of the committee.

French Appointments.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Appointments of Sissal ambassador to London, and Marquis de Noailles ambassador to Constantinople are gazetted.

A Note of Warning.

MADRID, Feb. 22.—Emil Castellar has published an article on Skobeloff's speech. He fears a coming Slav invasion of Europe, and declares that it behooves the Latin races in the interest of civilization to enter into close alliance with the Germans.

Skobeloff Ordered Home.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—The North German Gazette states that Gen. Skobeloff has received orders to return immediately to St. Petersburg.

Washington's Birthday at Berlin.

American residents and legation celebrated the day with a banquet and a display of flags.

Parliamentary Election.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Davitt has been elected to parliament to succeed A. M. Sullivan, resigned.

Against the Bucket Shops.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The Chicago board of trade has inaugurated a vigorous warfare against bucket shops, and proposes hereafter not to allow sessions to be held, and the stock company will furnish open boards with their quotations, upon which bucket shops are entirely dependent.

A Fatal Experiment.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 21.—An employe of the Carnegie rolling mills, while examining the electric light machine, placed his hand on one of the wires and received a shock that killed him instantly.

FEES OF DOCTORS.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3 00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1000 and all the year's sickness.—Post.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.

Singleton of Illinois offered a proviso providing the discontinuance of steamboat mail service on the Mississippi river between St. Louis and St. Paul, Minn., so long as navigation remains unopened be ruled out, and the clause for transportation of mails across the St. Louis bridge be amended to authorize the postmaster general to pay for special service there not over $25,000 annually, or not more than the lowest private bill for the mail service.

The clause relating to star route transportation being reached, Springer offered an amendment providing that no part of the appropriation shall be paid for expedited or extended and increased service, the cost of which would exceed $1000, unless there had been new advertising and letting.

Page opposed the amendment as entailing needless expense, and in the interest of a ring about the capitol, the most damnable that ever existed. After Springer had defended the amendment it was rejected.

Holman offered an amendment authorizing the postmaster general to terminate any mail contract with a sub contractor at higher prices than that for which he had agreed to perform the service.

Page heartily approved this, being the only honest amendment yet offered. Pending action the committee rose and adjourned till Thursday.

CALIFORNIA.

A Good Appointment.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Capt. W. L. Merry, having been appointed by the board of trade as delegate to represent that body before the United States senate and house of representatives committees at Washington, D. C., to urge passage of the maritime canal of Nicaragua bill, will leave for Washington during the ensuing week.

Observing Washington's Birthday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Washington's Birthday was observed by a general suspension of business, display of bunting and review of the national guard.

Storm Reports.

The signal service report up to noon to-day indicate that this state will be visited by a general rainstorm, commencing in the northern part this P. M., reaching this city towards morning to-morrow, at Los Angeles to-morrow night. The prediction is based on a rapid fall in the barometer in Washington territory and Oregon with barometer falling at all points in this state.

Freights Reduced.

The rate of freights on flour from this city to Galveston, Texas, has been reduced by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., to 90 cents per 100 pounds.

Patriotism.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 22.—Washington's birthday was observed here to-day by an almost total suspension of business, a general display of flags, a ball by the artillery band, closing of all public offices, banquet by the Improved Order of Red Men, and a ball by the Xophos Club.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 22.—An anti-polygamy mass meeting was held here to-night and was well attended. L. S. Taylor presided. The speakers were N. Slater, W. B. C. Brown, Revs. T. S. Dunn and D. S. Taylor. A strong memorial to congress, calling for effective anti-polygamy legislation, was adopted, and resolutions for a committee to correspond with other committees and urge agitation. A congratulatory address was dispatched to like mass meeting at

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A New Gold Field.

VICTORIA, Feb. 22.—Last summer, a man named Barney Johnson went to Chilcat, crossed the coast range and reached a point fifty miles from Fort Selkirk on the Yukon river at the mouth of Lewis river. There he found a gold belt running across the country, from east to west, the same as in Cassiar, Ominica and Cariboo. He prospected and obtained fine gold every where along the line of this belt, which of course he did not explore fully, as it had taken him a long time to get in and very little of the season was left to work. The rocks he saw all presented a first class appearance and the writer feels sure there will be a flourishing country there this summer. Indians and fur bearing animals are numerous in the country. The altitude of which is not so great as that of Cassiar, and the climate better. The diggings lie about the 60th parallel of latitude. The boundary of British Columbia does not extend beyond that and although the new gold field lies in British territory it undoubtedly owes allegiance to the northwest territory.

THURSDAY MORNING, FEB. 23, 1882.

AN INTERESTING CONTROVERSY.

Rev. Herrick Johnson of Chicago has recently made war upon the theaters and upon the Christian people who patronize them. He arraigns dramatic managers for pandering to low tastes and calls as witnesses in support of his indictment several eminent critics, showing by extracts from their daily reviews that many of the plays of the time are absolutely devoid of literary merit and worse, are coarse, vulgar and immoral. This is the substance of Mr. Johnson's first assault. It created a sensation in the dramatic profession and brought out several sharp replies from distinguished actors. Mr. Johnson was reminded that there were poor sermons as well as poor plays, and bad clergymen as well as bad actors, and these retorts though far beneath the dignity of argument, served to call public attention and interest to the controversy.

Mr. Johnson cared nothing for the actors who must, of course, "follow their lines," nor for the play makers who came to the defense of their work. But he arraigned the managers for all the sins of the stage and continued his criticisms till Mr. E. L. Larned, an old and highly respected citizen of Chicago and a Christian man, published an open letter antagonizing Mr. Johnson's charges and putting the blame where it belongs—upon the people who patronize worthless or immoral performances. Mr. Larned is a friend of the theater and he believes that it is a great public teacher. He admits that many sensational plays produced now-a-days are all that Mr. Johnson charges, but thinks such bad plays are fewer than those of high moral tone and good influence; and in support of his view cites the popular and familiar "Rip Van Winkle" and "Hazel Kirke," a comparatively new piece which has had a great run in the east. The theater, Mr. Larned says, needs to be reformed in many respects, and the best way to do it, he thinks, is for good men to give it their patronage when it offers dramatic entertainments unexceptionable in every way, and to decline to give it at any other time.

Mr. Larned's letter brought Mr. Johnson again to the front, but evidently he had learned something and his last attack was upon the people. He had more facts and now witnesses. He calls a dramatic critic to the stand who says: "There never was a prior time in its [the theater's] history when it had the support and encouragement of the brilliant, educated, moral and religious people it now enjoys." He quotes a "Christian editor of Chicago"—[Here is indeed a surprise]—as saying editorially: "There are thousands of people in Chicago as much in favor of sobriety, modesty and Christianity as Mr. Johnson himself, who are regular theater-goers;" and he quotes from a private letter from Mr. McVicker, the great manager, in which that gentleman refers to "his friends of the church;" and further, he himself testifies: "I happen to know and to my sorrow that there is too much truth in all this."

He has concluded from the developments of the controversy that the theater cannot be reformed, and says in his last letter: "No, my dear sir, history should teach us that a radical, permanent reformation of the theater—with men and women as they are now constituted, with such passions wakeful and clamorous in many bosoms and sleeping in many more—is as much out of the question as pure, chaste, public human nudity is out of the question. * * Reform it by discriminating patronage when it has within itself the seeds of corruption and exists only under a law of degeneration? Impossible."

This controversy, though resultless so far as practical benefit is concerned, as most discussions, has attracted wide attention. The high character of the men engaged in it have given it dignity and their ability and frankness have given it interest. Mr. Larned's view will be the most popular, and should be. There certainly is need to educate and elevate public taste. So long as people fill the theater to see "Fun on the Bristol," "Widow Bedott" and other similar shows, so long will there be work for reformers.

A NEW CEREAL.

Dhurra, a variety of corn forming the staple food of the natives of Upper Egypt and Nubia, has been successfully cultivated on the dry plains of western Kansas for some years, and a movement is now urged by residents of California looking to its cultivation in that state. Its peculiar adaptability to regions where the summer season is dry, would undoubtedly make this a valuable addition to the crops of Eastern Oregon and Washington, whenever exceptionally dry seasons occur. The grain is not only an excellent substitute for corn, but is also a very desirable food for cattle and horses, and the stalks are eaten greedily by all kinds of stock. Poultry are especially fond of the grain. In the intense heat of Nubia eight months are required for the cultivation of this cereal, but in our climate it would doubtless mature much sooner.

Sir Samuel W. Baker who passed several years in the region of the upper Nile, speaks highly of the value of dhurra, and in one of his interesting volumes gives a description of the mode of cultivation and uses it is put to by the natives. He describes it as attaining a height of from eight to ten feet, the circumference of the stem being about four inches. The crown of the stalk is a feather very similar to that of sugar cane. When the blossom falls, this feather becomes a head of dhurra weighing about two pounds, each grain being the size of hemp seed. The heads are detached from the straw and beaten out in piles. The dried stalks are used almost exclusively by the Arabs for forming the walls of their village huts, being plastered with clay.

The American Agriculturist calculates that the grain is, for cattle, about equal, pound for pound, to corn meal. This is the result of analyses and of practical experiments. The grain, ground and sifted, is valuable for cakes and said to be superior to buckwheat for that use. It can be used for brown bread also, but is not as good as cornmeal. Ground coarsely, like oatmeal or cracked wheat, and cooked in a similar way, it is said to be palatable and nutritious, and some persons prefer it to either of these preparations.

Contrary to very general expectation, the whipping-post has proved ineffective. New Jersey is tired of it, and a bill for its abolishment now before the legislature will certainly pass, is is said. A bill abolishing the whipping-post in Virginia has just passed the senate of that state, and the house will certainly concur in it and the governor will sign it. It has been shown by opponents of the law that more crimes have been committed since its adoption than ever before. One of the grounds of opposition urged against it by some democratic politicians was that it was class legislation and did not affect all alike. The negroes they contended, were accustomed to the lash during slavery time, and rather got to liking it, and now oftentimes select it in preference to imprisonment. White men look upon the stripe with the most perfect horror, and in many instances would as lief be branded with a hot iron.

A STUMBLING-BLOCK TO COMMERCE.

A petition is being generally circulated and signed asking our representatives in congress to use all due diligence in procuring a repeal of the reciprocity treaty now in force between the United States and the Hawaiian kingdom. When this treaty went into force Oregon had five good vessels trading with the Sandwich Islands—the barkentine Falkinburg, owned by George Flavel of Astoria; the bark Mattie Mackay, owned by Donald Mackay of this city, and the schooner Hera and brigs Hazard and Sea Waif, owned by George W. Hume, aggregating a total of nearly 2300 tons. Now we have none, and we have the reciprocity treaty to thank for it. What makes the matter worse is that the owners of the vessels above referred to were compelled to sell them at a sacrifice, instead of running them at a profit.

Had the treaty merely benefited the state of California, to the detriment of the whole coast, it then had been bad enough. Had it enriched San Francisco to the impoverishment of all the rest of California, with Oregon, Nevada and Washington thrown in it would have been still worse. But when it comes down to enriching one man—Claus Spreckels—at the cost of all the rest of the entire Pacific coast, it is time for some definite action. It is a well known fact that the Central Pacific Railroad Company charges a higher tariff for carrying sugar westward than any other article of commerce possessing like value and specific gravity. The most natural inference is, therefore, that the railroad company has been subsidized out of the profits of Mr. Spreckels' sugar factories and is therefore interested indirectly in their gains. For that reason it is surmised that should the repeal of the treaty be attempted, the whole lobby of railroad advocates and stipendiaries who live without work, would be turned loose by King Stanford to aid the cause of King Spreckels.

But the people all over Oregon and Washington are interested in the repeal of this treaty. The farmer in Walla Walla or Pendleton wants cheaper sugar to put up his winter fruit, and the logger on Puget Sound would like to see the lumber of his milling port shipped to Honolulu as it was in days of yore, before the rapacious Spreckels gobbled up the entire trade of the Hawaiian kingdom. If we lose trade by lack of enterprise or a want of industry on our part, that is one thing, doing it by means of legislation foisted upon us by hungry and mercenary congressmen, is another.

The board of trade should frame an address with a petition for signatures attached and send a copy to every merchant and retailer in the interior, as well as to every lumber manufacturer on the coast. And if congress regards the old legislative maxim of the "greatest good to the greatest number," it will repeal the odious reciprocity treaty and place the commerce of the Pacific coast on its former footing. It is bad legislation which contemplates the aggrandizement of one man at the expense of everybody else, or even renders such a result possible.

The San Francisco Chronicle of the 11th inst. has a dispatch from Portland saying that "A memorial is being extensively signed in Washington Territory praying Congress to declare the forfeiture of the Northern Pacific railroad land grant." A summary of such a petition is then set forth, and the statement is added that "at one place in the territory several hundred names were signed to this petition in a few hours." The statement is absolutely false. If such a paper has been signed at all, it has been in out-districts or by a few cranks who do not represent the sentiment of the people of the territory. Not a single one of the territorial newspapers has noted a petition against the Northern Pacific in its locality, which certainly would have been done had one been circulated; and, we do not know of one which would not, on behalf of its patrons, condemn a proposition to take the land grant away from the railroad. The whole northwest wants to see the road built, and the schemes of rival companies to delay it, meets here with almost unanimous disapproval. The people of western Washington would favor forfeiture of the land grant in the territory if that part of the proposed line in the territory should not be built; but not otherwise.

George P. Rowell, the well known newspaper directory publisher, has just returned to New York from an extended tour throughout the western states and Pacific Coast. While in Denver recently he was interviewed by a reporter and gave his opinion of the newspapers of the various states and territories in which he traveled. Comparing those of Colorado and Oregon as two states of equal population, he considered those of the former state as superior, and while he credited THE OREGONIAN with being the best paper outside of San Francisco on the coast, said it was not yet up to the standard of the leading Denver dailies. This is doubtless true, but before making invidious comparisons Mr. Rowell should have considered the difference in size and the class of people inhabiting the two cities. In 1880 Denver had 35,000 inhabitants and Portland 17,000, or less than half. When Portland attains the size of Denver, and its people become as full of activity as those of that remarkably energetic city, THE OREGONIAN will be found to have complied with every requirement necessary in a first-class city journal.

State Senator Jones, of Delaware, has introduced in the legislature an important bill, which incorporates into the statutes substantially the same provisions as those of the tenure-of-office act with reference to removals from office. It authorizes the governor to remove officials, for cause, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, when appointed with such advice and consent, and to suspend inefficient or corrupt officers during the recess of the senate, the suspension to be duly reported to the senate for its confirmation or rejection at the ensuing session. If the suspension be concurred in, the suspended officer shall be removed; otherwise he shall be restored to his position. This seems to secure to the senate an advisory power as to removals similar to that enjoyed by the senate of the United States.

As more light is thrown on the schemes of Shepherd's Peruvian company, the more unsavory does Shepherd's reputation become. The formidable array of names in his list of backers has dwindled away like the mist before the summer's sun, and symptoms of uneasiness are felt by the very few who were connected with the gigantic bubble. Correspondence on the subject recently published has shown the matter up in a way that reflects no credit upon those who were anxious to connect other parties with the fraud.

Disastrous floods have been devastating portions of the Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee and other valleys during the past week, and great loss of life and property has already occurred. At some points the water has reached the highest point ever known, and fears are entertained lest the damages be irreparable.

Senator Call's resolution calling a congress of nations excites much attention, as it is simply a reiteration of Blaine's policy.

CITY.

THE "TWENTY-SECOND."—Yesterday was rather lightly celebrated, no doubt on account of the miserable weather, which would have made an enthusiast wish himself warmly in-doors, in preference to parading the streets in uniform. All the banks closed their doors during business hours, as did some few wholesale firms, while others closed for only a few hours in the afternoon. Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather Washington and Emmet Guards turned out in full uniform, with music, for parade, but after marching about in the sloppy streets for some time, disbanded and returned to their quarters. The Washington Guard ball given last night was a success in every respect. A comfortablyly large crowd was in attendance, and a pleasant evening was passed. Bethel Home Lodge celebrated the return of this anniversary by one of their social gatherings. A goodly number of seamen were present, and with the lodge and their friends made a very pleasant company. Miss Waterford presided at the organ and Mr. Robert Stanton occupied the pulpit. The songs of the sailors, speeches from some of the landspeople, a short address, and selections by Mrs. Stubbs appropriate to the occasion, with the hearty good will of everyone for the recovery of Chaplain Stubbs, made the occasion one long to be remembered.

GEIM AGAINST GANDON.—Yesterday evening Mrs. Geim, proprietress of a fancy goods establishment on Third street, between Washington and Alder, assaulted and struck P. G. Gandon, a tailor, who works on Morrison, between First and Second streets, and, as he states, used him up pretty badly. Judging from the statements of both parties, it seems that Gandon lodges above the store of Mrs. Geim, and had been noising stories about derogatory to her character as a lady, and that she took this means of stopping it. He made a complaint against her at the police station, preferring a charge of assault and battery. She was arrested and furnished $40 for her appearance to-day. She said that immediately after the row, she went to Justice Davis' court with the intention of paying whatever fine would be imposed upon her. She will be heard in the police court to-day.

DANGEROUS ILLNESS.—Chaplain Stubbs has been confined to his bed by severe illness. He officiated last Sunday evening in the bethel with more than his ordinary earnestness, and at the close of the service he remarked to his wife that he had not felt so well for years. About an hour after he was siezed with distressing pains, which did not yield to medical treatment, and Monday night was attacked with congestive chills, accompanied by cramps that seriously affected the action of the lungs and heart. Relief was finally obtained, but great weakness followed, and he has not rallied as readily as was expected, although he sat up a short time yesterday afternoon. It is sincerely hoped he will soon be about again.

THE PURIM ENTERTAINMENT.—Last evening a rehearsal of the children's choruses was given. Mr. Kinross was there in full force, which means that his part of the programme will be a success. Two elegant prizes (valued at $100) are exhibited in B. L. Stone's and Henrichsen's windows. Miss Flora Abrahams will sing the "Lorelie." Everything which can add to the effect of the tableaux has been brought into requisition. Never before have tableaux of such magnitude been presented in Portland. The rush for spectators' tickets will be immense. The diagram for reserved seats will be open to the public on Friday morning, Nov. 3d, at 9 A. M., at Prentice's.

THE OREGON SHORT LINE.—A correspondent of the La Grande Record, writing from Wood river says: "The Oregon Short Line is pushing matters as fast as possible. The road across the desert is to be graded this winter and in early spring to avoid the necessity of hauling water. The iron bridge across Snake river at American falls will be completed early in March; the track will be laid across immediately. Grading will be pushed to Wood river, to which point they propose to have cars running before July. The line will then be extended toward Oregon as rapidly as possible."

RECKLESS JUMP.—Yesterday the deputy sheriff of Jackson county was a passenger on the train from Roseburg with a prisoner named Johnson, who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for larceny. Johnson was handcuffed. When the train was about one mile south of Jefferson, running at eighteen miles an hour, he went into the water closet, raised the window and jumped out, alighting on his head. The train was immediately stopped, and the convict picked up. Beyond stunning and slight bruises on the forehead, he sustained no injuries.

DECISION.—Yesterday in the United States circuit court, in the case of S. P. Sleppy vs. the St. Louis Bank of Commerce, for possession of a stolen certificate of deposit and interest thereon, Judge Deady decided that the defendant should surrender the certificate or its value, and that the plaintiff recover interest from date of detention, amounting to $[illegible] 66. The full text of the decision is printed in another column.

BURNED WITH CARBOLIC ACID.—Tuesday afternoon a three year old daughter of Mrs. B. F. Ausmus, of East Portland, was painfully burned by spilling carbolic acid on her body and face. She had taken the vial containing the acid from the cupboard, and while playing with it, drew the cork. A physician is in attendance, and the child, although in no danger, suffers great pain.

WITNESSES SUMMONED.—Deputy Sheriff DuBois started for the Cascades yesterday with the necessary documents to summon witnesses and bring them to this city to testify in the case of the parties charged with committing the robbery at the store of Dr. Lovens at that place some time since. They will all be here in time for the trial, which will begin next Tuesday.

CASE DISMISSED.—The case of the state of Oregon against Dot Bon and N. W. Gow, for larceny, was dismissed in the police court yesterday. Mr. Mulcey said there seemed to be no conclusive evidence against them, and he thought it a useless expense to attempt the prosecution. O. C. Yocum, who lost the money, is that much poorer, there's no mistake about that.

THE RIVER.—Very early yesterday morning it began to snow between Rooster rock and The Dalles, and continued until dark. The snow lies twelve inches deep at The Cascades, four inches at Hood river and four inches at Rooster rock. At the Cascades the Columbia was full of snow and slush ice, and ice was running thick at Celilo and Ainsworth.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Morris Nelson, who was arrested Monday on a charge of larceny from person, preferred by George Winters, was arraigned for examination in the police court yesterday. Nelson had no excuse to give for his conduct, as the pocketbook which he stole was found on his person, and was held to answer in the sum of $500.

ARRIVED.—The steamship Eureka arrived in port yesterday with passengers, 1000 barrels San Juan lime, fish oil, and $1905 in gold dust. The City of Chester will hereafter run on this route, and will leave Tuesday, the 28th inst. The Eureka will be thoroughly overhauled and repaired before going into service again.

SELLING WHISKY TO INDIANS.—Six persons were yesterday taken to the county jail on a charge of selling whisky to Indians. They will have a hearing before Judge Deady this afternoon.

ANTI-POLYGAMY MEETING.

A meeting to take action against the rapid increase and outrages of Mormonism, which has been talked of much of late, was held at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms yesterday afternoon. By general assent Mr. Wm. Wadhams presided, with Mr. I. A. Macrum as secretary. Circulars from Chicago, setting forth the evils and abominations of Mormonism, were read by Dr. Atkinson. These circulars suggest that there be organizations in all the congressional districts, and a system of public meetings and personal letters and other influence be brought to bear to express the sentiment of the people on this subject. It was proposed that mass meetings be called in all parts of the country on the 22d of February, and that correspondence be opened with all other parts of the country, so that assurances of sympathy from all may be secured. Dr. Atkinson then made a few remarks, called for the movement and urging that action be taken in the matter. The Edmunds bill, which is now before the house of representatives, was discussed by the meeting. A committee consisting of ex-Governors A. C. Gibbs, Rev. Mr. Roberts and Rev. J. A. Gray was appointed to draft a series of resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting.

While the committee were preparing the resolutions, Rev. T. L. Eliot addressed the meeting, giving his views of this outrageous religious system and means of wiping out this stain on the nation's honor, followed by Rev. A. W. Bower, who made remarks of the same tenor. The committee then presented the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we look with alarm upon the increase of polygamy in the territories of the United States, and deem it most appropriate and necessary at this time to make a united and efficient effort to put it down.

Resolved, That the bill recently passed by the senate of the United States, known as the Edmunds bill, meets with our hearty approval, and that our member in congress be and hereby is requested to use all honorable means to secure its passage by the house of representatives.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be telegraphed to Hon. M. C. George, M. C., and published in the city papers.

NEWS NOTES FROM YAKIMA.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

YAKIMA CITY, Feb. 19.

W. D. Ogden, who has been confined to his room for the past three weeks is again on the streets.

Mrs. Melvina Chappell, wife of Samuel Chappell, died at her residence in this city, Feb. 6, aged 30 years.

Messrs. Lockwood & Cooper, owners of the Schaffer mine in this county, passed through here last week en route to their mine, having with them quite a lot of miners. They propose to commence operations as soon as possible. They expect to work 50 men in the mine all summer.

The calico ball here on the 14th inst. was a grand success. All the ladies and many of the gentlemen were in full calico. Some of the suits were very neat and becoming, others remarkably ridiculous. There were 62 couples who took part in the dancing, and quite a large crowd of spectators.

A young man named Addison Kessling, who, a short time ago, was arrested and placed under bonds to appear at the next term of circuit court for stealing and rebranding a horse belonging to J. B. Huntington, was again arrested for stealing a saddle from J. P. Sharp. He was found guilty and fined $50 and costs in Justice Brooks' court a few days since.

Mrs. Sarah Bland, wife of Wm. Bland, died at her home near Cottage Glen, Yakima county, W. T., Feb. 1, 1882. Mrs. Bland and her husband were among the early settlers in Yakima county. She leaves quite a large family to mourn her loss, some of whom are grown. She was an intelligent, noble, kind hearted mother, and her loss is severely felt by all who knew her.

THE DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

Decide to Hold the Next State Convention April 5th—The Apportionment, etc.

Yesterday morning the democratic state central committee met in the law rooms of Ellis & Bourne, in Ainsworth block, and in the absence of Hon. C. F. Beattie, chairman, were called to order by A. Noltner. Judge Wm. M. Townsend, of Yamhill, was chosen chairman pro tem, and C. Ball, of Douglas, secretary. J. B. Condon, J. C. Tolman and A. Noltner were appointed a committee on credentials and made a report showing the following delegates entitled to seats:

Baker county—S. B. McCord, by A. Zieber, proxy.
Benton—G. Carlisle, by John Burnett, proxy.
Clackamas—C. J. Beattie, by B. Jennings, proxy.
Clatsop—Thomas Dealy.
Coos—S. H. Hazard, by R. Newcomb, proxy.
Douglas—C. Ball.
Grant—W. McDowell, by W. H. Effinger, proxy.
Linn—C. H. Stewart.
Lane—R. B. Cochran, by Ira L. Campbell, proxy.
Jackson—T. G. Reames, by C. B. Bellinger, proxy.
Marion—R. H. Dearborn, by L. D. Bristow, proxy.
Multnomah—A. Noltner.
Polk—T. J. Lee, by W. W. Williams, proxy.
Tillamook—J. S. Strong, by A. Noltner, proxy.
Umatilla—J. White, by A. Zieber, proxy.
Wasco—J. B. Condon.
Washington—J. B. Weatherford.
Yamhill—W. M. Townsend.
Curry, Columbia, Lake, Josephine and Union counties were not represented.

Messrs. Zieber, Burnett and Noltner were appointed a committee on apportionment, and after an informal discussion a recess was taken until 2 P. M.

THE APPORTIONMENT.

After re-assembling the committee on apportionment made the following report, which was adopted:

Your committee on apportionment would recommend that the next state convention be composed of 201 delegates apportioned on the vote cast for John Whiteaker for congress in 1880, being one delegate for every 150 votes cast and one for every fraction of 70 or over, and one delegate at large, which would give to each county the following representation:

Baker	7	Lane	12
Benton	9	Linn	16
Clackamas	9	Marion	12
Clatsop	3	Multnomah	20
Columbia	3	Polk	9
Coos	4	Tillamook	2
Curry	3	Umatilla	12
Douglas	11	Union	9
Grant	5	Wasco	12
Jackson	11	Washington	6
Josephine	4	Yamhill	10
Lake	5

DATE OF THE CONVENTION.

A feeling that the democratic party would have a better chance for success at the polls next June if it could choose its candidates and make its platform after the republicans had selected their standard bearers and declared their principles, seemed to pervade the meeting. In truth such was the expressed conviction of half the members present. They were worried over the fact that the chairman of the republican committee learned the date of their meeting and called his for one day later. This, the delegates thought, for the party in the majority, was downright mean. Col. W. H. Effinger moved and Judge Burnett seconded, that the state convention be held Wednesday, April 5. Mr. Condon opposed the motion on the ground of policy. Colonel Effinger in support of his motion expressed the belief that the party could make a stronger canvass if candidates were chosen and platform enunciated regardless of opponent's movements. A spirited discussion followed in which every member took part. Col. Effinger's motion prevailed by a vote of 11 to 7, as follows:

Ayes—Benton, Clackamas, Clatsop, Grant, Lane, Jackson, Marion, Multnomah, Tillamook, Washington and Yamhill.

Nays—Baker, Coos, Douglas, Linn, Polk, Umatilla and Wasco.

On motion of Mr. Noltner, primaries were called for Saturday, March 25, and county conventions for the selection of delegates to the state convention Wednesday, March 29.

A resolution expressing regret over the serious illness and unavoidable absence of the chairman, Hon. C. F. Beattie, was passed, after which the meeting adjourned.

IRVING'S ADDITION.

That handsome piece of land known as the Irving tract, lying on the river between the Railroad and Albina Ferries, is being surveyed into lots and blocks, and is offered for sale on very easy terms. Being immediately adjoining East Portland and opposite the heavy business portion of the city of Portland, it offers, with the easy terms on which lots can be secured, unequaled inducements to persons desirous of securing a home. We have also for sale, on the same property, three pieces of water front one of 225, one of 200 feet, and another of 300 feet, on easy terms. We have also a few more low-priced lots in Wilson's Addition, Portland, for sale on the installment plan.

JUDGE DEADY'S LECTURES.

The Washington Star in its report of Judge Deady's second lecture says:

On last Tuesday evening Judge M. P. Deady, of Oregon delivered before the students and faculty of the law department of Georgetown university a lecture on "Law and Lawyers," the second of the two lectures advertised some time ago to be given by him. It proved to be as interesting even than the previous one on the "Jury System," of which a brief account was given last week.

The lecturer traced the growth of common law from the rude arbitrament of war, which in the early feudal days of Europe constituted almost the sole mode for the settlement not only of public but of private difficulties, and which has left a lingering trace in the so-called "code of honor," the duel, through the ordeal by fire and water and other semi-religious modes of appeal to the decision of heaven, down to the present regular system for the adjudication of controversies by the intervention of regularly constituted courts of justice. He showed that the "truce of God," proclaimed by a bishop of Aquitaine in A. D. 1032, was the first important step towards the breaking up of the system of private war, and that the superstitious modes of decision by the ordeal of fire and water and the combat were great improvements on the appeal to arms; yet the "wager of battle" remained among the legal modes of redress in continental Europe down to a quite recent period, and in England the last instance of its use was as late as the year 1818.

The first English judges were generally ecclesiastics. But by the end of the reign of Edward the First, in A. D. 1307, a body of laymen, who made the law their study, grew up around the lines of court, of which there were four corresponding to the four principal courts at Westminster. The students of law were generally from the higher classes of society. The ideas given to us of the high standard of morality and training among these students by Sir John Fortescue in his celebrated works on "The Praises of the Laws of England," contrasts very remarkably with the present condition of things in our mercantile and commercial age, when the profession of law is followed merely as a business for individual profit and not as a learned and honorable ministry for the general good. Yet the requirements of ability, industry and integrity in the members of the legal profession are as great now as they ever were, especially under our republican form of government.

The formation of bar associations, the lecturer said, was in response to the demand for reform in the profession.

The condition of the bench, where the incumbents are poorly paid, chosen for short terms, and at the dictation of caucuses and politicians, was referred to as bearing unfavorably on the purity of the legal profession. The power of great corporations keeping their legal advisers, as the barons of old did their Dugald Dalgettys, and the habit of speculation in the matter of contingent fees, were also mentioned as tending to demoralize the profession.

The establishment of codes in this country was mentioned as restoring the old practices of the common law, and not as overthrowing the system, as they are commonly supposed to do. The lecturer gave several illustrations of this view of the case.

He also drew a parallel between the English and American governmental systems, and showed how both were founded on the common law, and how necessary knowledge of the common law and of the legal and political contests of the mother country in the centuries immediately preceding our revolution was to a proper understanding of our constitution.

The lecturer then sketched briefly the early treatises on the common law and the early statutes which, modified and crystalized it, and finished with a glowing eulogy on the common law system, which he contrasted, greatly to its credit, with the Roman civil law and its maxims.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent telegraphed as follows to his paper concerning Judge Deady's lecture on "Trial by Jury:"

"The lecture was distinguished by marked ability and profound research, and contained some suggestions that are calculated to make a strong impression on the public mind and may be productive of important results upon our system of trial by jury. 'Jury trial' was the subject of discussion, and after tracing its history with much precision and in a most interesting manner, and speaking of it in terms of commendation familiar to the profession and contrasting its practical administration in this country and England, not entirely to the advantage of the former, the Judge urged the necessity of modifying the rule by which the unanimous agreement of the jury is made necessary to obtain a verdict, and argued with great force that, in view of the general intelligence of our people, the education and cultivation of all classes of our citizens and their habit of independent thought, the law should be so modified that in all civil cases a majority of the jury should be sufficient to give a verdict, and in criminal cases the agreement of not more than two-thirds or three-fourths ought to be required, while at the same time in the latter class of cases no one should be excluded from the jury box simply on the ground that he had formed and expressed an opinion on the guilt or innocence of the accused from what he had heard or read.

Some of the leading members of the profession who heard the lecture expressed the opinion that a law modifying the system as suggested by the judge would be a most desirable reform in the district."

DECISION IN U. S. CIRCUIT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

U. S. Circuit Court, District of Oregon.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 22, 1882.

S. P. Sleppy v. Bank of Commerce, George L. Howard and Charles H. Lee. No. 7[illegible]. Action to recover personal property.

(1) DAMAGES FOR THE DETENTION OF CERTIFICATE OF DEPOSIT. The defendants unlawfully detained a certificate of deposit of the value of $2000 from the plaintiff. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to recover damages for such detention equal to legal interest on the value of the certificate from the date of the demand therefor and refusal to the recovery—and this without any evidence that the plaintiff would have converted said certificate into money and put it to use, other than his right to do so but for the defendants' illegal prevention of the exercise of such right.

DEADY, J.

This action is brought to recover the possession of a certificate of deposit—No. 20,286—issued by the First National Bank of this city, on April 6, 1881, for the sum of $2000, made returnable to the plaintiff or order, and since endorsed—"S. P. Sleppy, G. L. Howard, Chas. H. Lee," and "Pay 1st National Bank or order for collection account of Bank of Commerce, St. Louis, J. C. Van Blarcom, Cashier," and alleged to be wrongfully detained from the plaintiff by the defendants.

The plaintiff is a citizen of Oregon and the defendants are not. The action is brought under § 8 of the judiciary act of March 3, 1875 (18 Stat. 472), authorizing an action to be maintained in a circuit court of the U. S. to enforce a claim to personal property within the district where such action is brought, although the defendant therein shall not appear therein nor be an inhabitant of such district or found therein.

An order was made requiring the defendants to appear and answer within 60 days from the service on them of a copy thereof. This order was served upon the defendant, the Bank of Commerce, personally, at St. Louis, it being a corporation formed under the laws of that state and doing business therein, and on the National Bank aforesaid, in whose possession said certificate then was as the agent of the Bank of Commerce; and on the defendants Howard and Lee, who were not found anywhere, by publication.

The complaint has a double aspect—being in trover as well as replevin—and alleges that about May 20, 1881, the defendants "wrongfully converted said certificate to their own use," and still wrongfully "detain" the same from the plaintiff without his consent. But the action has been considered and tried as an action of replevin only, and the allegation as to the "conversion" of the certificate treated as surplusage.

It is also alleged that before the commencement of this action and while said certificate was in the possession of said National Bank, as aforesaid, the plaintiff duly demanded of said bank as the agent of said defendants, the possession of said certificate, which was refused.

The answer of the Bank of Commerce admits that the certificate was issued to the plaintiff, as alleged, but denies knowledge or information as to whom it belongs now or since; and alleges that on May 31, 1881, persons claiming to be Lee and Howard, whose names are endorsed on said certificate, deposited the same with it, for collection, and that thereafter it forwarded the certificate to the National Bank aforesaid for collection; that about June 10 and 15 said Lee made enquiry of said defendant whether or not said certificate had been collected, and was told that it had not, since which time the defendant had not been able to obtain any information concerning said Lee.

The cause was tried by the court without a jury. Upon the trial it appeared from the testimony of the plaintiff that soon after receiving the certificate of deposit he went to San Antonio, Texas, and after tarrying there a few days started home by the southern route on a through ticket to San Francisco in an emigrant train; that shortly before reaching St. Louis, a person calling himself E. L. Stevens stepped into the car and asked him where he was going, to which the plaintiff answered, Portland, Oregon; whereupon Stevens said he was going there also and would be glad of his company—that he was going on to Walla Walla, and upon the plaintiff mentioning the names of two well known citizens there with whom he was acquainted, Stevens said one of them was his uncle. After sitting awhile by the plaintiff, Stevens proposed to give him his address, for which purpose the plaintiff handed him an ordinary pocket memorandum book, which contained this certificate and a $10 bill. After writing the address—"E. L. Stevens, Walla Walla, Wash. Ter., Met on train May 18, '81;" he returned the book to the plaintiff and after a short interval asked the plaintiff to write his name and address in his book, which he did. The train arrived at St. Louis about 8 in the evening and there Stevens said he had some business to attend to, which would prevent his going on until morning and asked the plaintiff to wait for him at Kansas City. Before parting with the plaintiff, Stevens took him to a restaurant near by, to get his supper, and as he turned away put 25 cents into his hand to pay for it, saying he might be short of change. The plaintiff objected to taking it, but Stevens insisted, and as he went away said he could make it all right when they met on the cars at Kansas City.

The plaintiff waited at the latter place for Stevens until the next evening, but he did not come, and then went on without him. At Los Angeles he made some purchases, and finding himself short of pocket money took out his memorandum book intending to get the $10 bill changed, when he ascertained that both it and the certificate of deposit were missing. As the train was then starting, he had not time to telegraph, but at the next station—Mojave—on June 7, he telegraphed to the National bank to stop payment of the certificate.

The name of the plaintiff endorsed on the certificate was admitted by him to be a good imitation of his signature.

It was also admitted by counsel for defendant that the plaintiff demanded possession of the certificate as alleged, and that the National bank, acting under the instruction of the defendant "to neither deliver the certificate to the plaintiff nor pay him any money on it"—refused to surrender it and still retains the possession of the same.

The evidence is satisfactory that the chevalier d'industrie, calling himself "Stevens," of Walla Walla, abstracted the certificate from the plaintiff's memorandum book when he got possession of it on the train, under pretence of writing his address therein—the giving him 25 cents to pay for his supper was a precaution against the plaintiff's having to resort to the $10 bill for that purpose and thus becoming aware of the theft before he left St. Louis. The subsequent endorsements upon the certificate of the names of the plaintiffs Howard and Lee, and the deposit of the same with the Bank of Commerce for collection, are probably the work of the same party or some confederates, who have wisely kept in the background since they probably learned that the owner was asserting his claim to the possession of the property.

It is practically admitted that the plaintiff is entitled to recover the possession of the certificate, but the claim of damages for its detention is earnestly resisted, upon the ground that the detention has worked no injury to the plaintiff, for the reason that the certificate is not money, and there could be no profit in the mere possession of it; that although the plaintiff might have converted it into money and put the latter to profitable use, there is no evidence in the case that he would have done so. But so long as the National Bank is solvent, the certificate is the exact equivalent of $2000, and could be actually converted into that sum at the pleasure of the plaintiff. Practically it is money, and its detention has deprived the plaintiff of the use of that sum.

Nor is it necessary to prove that the plaintiff would have converted it into money and put it to use. It is sufficient that he had the right to do so—that he might have done so but for the unlawful detention of the certificate by the defendant.

When the use of property unjustly detained is valuable, the value of such use is generally adopted as the rule of damages. For instance, when work-cattle or horses are detained from the owner, who is thereby deprived of their use, the value of that use, will ordinarily be the just compensation for their detention. Wells on Replevin, § 579, and cases there cited. But no proof is necessary to show that the owner would have used his horses or cattle during the time of their detention. His right to have done so is sufficient. And where the wrong consists merely in the detention of property, not the subject of daily use, without waste or depreciation, interest upon its value is often allowed as damages for the detention. Id. § 587 and cases there cited.

Merchants & Co. v. Goodrich, 75 Ill. 554, was an action to recover two certified checks of $2500 each. The verdict was for the plaintiff and in addition to the checks gave him $6275 damages for their detention—$1275 interest besides the value of the checks. Judgment was rendered on the verdict, but on appeal to the supreme court the judgment was reversed because it gave the plaintiff the checks and also their value and interest thereon as damages. But in the course of the opinion of the court it is said; "While there is no evidence upon the question of damages, the only damages which plaintiff could, in any event, recover for the wrongful detention of the checks, would be interest on $5000 at the rate of six per centum per annum from the time of the demand and refusal until they were replevied by the plaintiff." And this is equivalent to saying that such interest might be recovered as damages for the detention of certified checks which in legal effect and contemplation are the same as this certificate of deposit.

The pleadings and evidence are silent as to the date of the demand and refusal, except that it was prior to the commencement of the action, which was on June 27, 1881.

Interest will be allowed on the value of the certificate, as damages for its detention, at the rate of 8 per centum per annum from that date—in even numbers for eight months.

The finding of the court will be that the certificate is the property of the plaintiff and of the value of $2000 and that he is entitled to the possession of the same and $106 66⅔ damages for its detention, and that he have judgment against the defendants for the delivery of said certificate or the recovery of the value thereof and the damages aforesaid and costs.
